Education has to be holistic than just being an information centre of teaching and learning, Nurturing inherent talents and tapping potentialities of a child through co-scholastic activities has been the Hall mark of KRP.

To provide a holistic development to the learners, students are being assessed in scholastic and co- scholastic areas. Scholastic assessment is being done by assessing the performance of the learners in curricular subjects through assignments, project work, practical and oral work. Formative and summative assessments enabled the teachers to track the students' progress and identify their skills. Co- scholastic areas are related to hand and heart. It helped the students to improve their personal and social qualities
